1997 Sources of Gifts

SPECIAL GIFT CLUBS

Private gifts enhance virtually every aspect of the Law School: curriculum enrichment, student financial aid, technology and equipment, the Law Library, faculty research, and a variety of special programs. Individual membership in the following gift clubs is based on pledge payments, cash gifts, matching gifts, and gifts-in-kind. Members receive some special privileges depending on the level of support. However, the greatest benefit members receive is the satisfaction of having a measurable impact on the people and programs of Golden Gate University School of Law.

PRESIDENT'S CIRCLE

The leadership of those who set an exemplary standard of giving undergirds the Law School's ability to serve its constituents, communities, and society with increasing effectiveness.

Their example also encourages others to join in helping to assure a strong future for the Law School. We deeply appreciate the substantial commitments made by the following students, staff, alumni, and special friends whose significant gifts of $1,000 or more have provided critical resources that enhance current programs and fund special Law School priorities. Together, these individuals contributed a total of $92,490 in 1997.

THE BRIDGE SOCIETY

In recent years private funding has become increasingly critical to the Law School's operations. While outright gifts address immediate needs, deferred gifts fulfill a vital role in securing the school's future.

Membership in The Bridge Society is available to all those who notify us of their provision for the Law School through planned gifts such as bequests, charitable trusts, gifts of life insurance, and property. We are particularly proud to recognize the following founding members of The Bridge Society, who have made commitments to the Law School in their estate plans.

CORPORATIONS, FOUNDATIONS, LAW FIRMS AND ORGANIZATIONS

The generosity of corporations, law firms, foundations and other organizations has enabled the Law School to improve its curriculum, programs, and services. Program grants and faculty fellowships allow the school and its faculty to advance their understanding of and possible solutions to some of the major problems in our society. The Law School extends its gratitude and appreciation to these organizations for providing new and ongoing support during 1997.

MATCHING GIFT COMPANIES

Matching gift companies are those enterprises that share in their employees' support of higher education through a program whereby an employee's contribution is matched by the company. This generous program doubles, and sometimes triples, a personal gift to the Law School. (To arrange for your company's matching gift in the future, just ask your payroll or personnel office for a matching gift form.) The Law School thanks the following companies for their dedication and support of higher education for providing matching gifts during 1997.

Allstate Insurance Company
 Gilman Paper Company
 Pacific Enterprises
 T. Rowe Price & Associates
 Foundation
