Student Bar Association Hosts Mayoral Debate

The Student Bar Association (SBA) sponsored a San Francisco Mayoral Candidates Debate at the University on Friday, October 4. More than 300 people attended to watch the top four challengers to Mayor Art Agnos debate issues such as community development, the city's homeless situation, small business legislation, and the impact of the AIDS crisis.

"It was exciting to have GGU be part of the election."

-- Jennifer Martin
SBA President

Candidates included Angela Alioto, member of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors; Richard Hongisto, City Assessor; Tom Hsieh, member of the Board of Supervisors; and Frank Jordan, former Chief of Police. Mayor Art Agnos had also been invited to attend the debate, but he was unable to participate because of a previous commitment.

Kevin Pursglove, host of KQED-FM radio talk show "Forum" served as moderator for the event. A panel of four representatives from local organizations were invited to ask questions of the candidates about issues of interest to voters.

Among the panelists were Sue Hestor, a 1976 graduate of the Law School and the founder of San Franciscans for Reasonable Growth; John Silva, executive director of the Gay Asian Pacific Alliance Community HIV Project; Anthony Von der Muhll, staff member of San Francisco Coalition on Homelessness; and Scott Hauge, chairman of the board of the San Francisco Small Business Network.

Following the debate, members of the audience had an opportunity to ask questions of the candidates.

The debate was largely organized through the efforts of SBA President Jennifer Martin and Third Year Night Representative Jeff Owen, who contacted participants and organized volunteers from the SBA to serve as ushers for the evening's event.

"Everyone involved enjoyed it -- the students, candidates, and panelists," said Jennifer. "It was exciting to meet all the candidates and have GGU be part of the election. The students were impressed that it was at their school."

Supervisor Tom Hsieh (r) stands with one of his staff members.

In the future, she noted, "The SBA plans to do more community events in hopes that we attract not just the public but Golden Gate alumni as well." ■

Law School Moves Offices to New Building

The Law School has a brand new temporary home. Over the summer the faculty and administrative offices of the GGU School of Law relocated to the 14th and 15th floors of 49 Stevenson Street, an office building located behind the main campus. The reason for the move is to allow for the renovation of the school's previous location, part of which was damaged by the October 1989 earthquake. It is anticipated that this renovation will be completed by June, 1993.

As a result of the earthquake damage, some of the Law School's departments were forced to move to other parts of the campus building. In the new space, all administrative offices have been reunited in one area.

The 15th floor of the Stevenson building houses the Admissions Office, Registrar, Law Placement Center, and Alumni Relations Office. The offices of the Dean, Associate Deans, and some faculty members are also located on this floor. The majority of faculty offices are located on the 14th floor of the building. The Faculty Library can also be found here.

The Law Library and offices of the Student Bar Association and the Caveat, the student newspaper, were not affected by the move and remain on the ground floor of the 536 Mission Street building. In addition, all classes will continue to meet on the third floor of the campus building.

All mail for the Law School should still be sent to the main campus: 536 Mission Street, San Francisco, 94105. However, telephone numbers for the school have been changed. To contact any of the Law School departments, please note these new numbers:

Office of the Dean	904-6800
Law Registrar	904-6820
Law Placement	904-6825

Brown Bag Lunch Programs

The Law Placement and Career Counseling Office is now offering two Brown Bag Luncheon Programs for alumni each month. These programs provide participants with useful job hunting information as well as an opportunity to network with other alums.

The sessions address timely subjects such as developing job search strategies in a tight market and writing resumes and cover letters for legal jobs. Guest speakers occasionally discuss specialty areas within the legal profession.

The workshops are held every other Wednesday from 12 noon to 1:15 p.m. at the Law School. Participants are encouraged to bring their lunch. Programs are free with reservations advised.

Alumni are also welcome to come at their convenience to use the many resources of the Law Placement Office. Hours are Monday, 9:00 a.m. - 6:15 p.m., and Tuesday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. - 5:15 p.m.

For more information about these programs, call Shirley Cohen at (415) 904-6825. ■

Alumni Profile: The Honorable Judge Lee Baxter

The first thing one notices when entering Judge Lee Baxter's chambers are the photographs. Spectacular vistas of mountain ranges, boats resting serenely in a harbor, expansive fields of flowers, and animals -- lots of animals. The eye wanders to the toys on her desk -- the Mickey Mouse clock, wind-up chattering teeth, animal figurines, and the collection of snowdomes depicting places she has visited. "This is the office of a judge?" one might ponder. But upon meeting Lee Baxter, her radiating enthusiasm and competence quickly dissipate any unfounded biases of what a judge should be like.

It is this blend of competence and enthusiasm that earned her the Judith G. McKelvey Award for Outstanding Achievement by an Alumna at the GGU School of Law commencement ceremony in May of this year.

When she accepted this award, Lee was effusive in her enthusiasm for Golden Gate's role as a stepping stone for her to make what could have been a difficult career transition. A native of Kentucky, Lee earned a bachelor's degree in English and speech and drama from the University of Kentucky and then went on to become a high school teacher. She married, had two daughters, and moved to the Bay Area with her family in 1970.

It was at this point that she decided to do something that had not yet become acceptable by society's standards for a woman in her position -- she decided to go to law school.

"Golden Gate was really a turning point in my life"

-- Judge Lee Baxter

"When I was applying to law school, there were no law schools interested in me. I was not a very attractive applicant," she explained, because of her status as a woman with two young children. "Golden Gate was really a turning point in my life."

Lee entered GGU in 1971 and, upon graduating in 1974, went to work as a civil litigator in the Law Offices of Frederick Cone, a two-person firm. In 1982, Lee was appointed as Commissioner to the San Francisco Superior Court, where she worked for five years. Then, in June of 1987, she was appointed by Governor George Deukmejian to serve as a judge in San Francisco's municipal court criminal division, where she is currently employed.

On a typical workday, Lee might deal with 50 cases. Her mornings are spent in pre-hearing conferences, doing arraignments, hearing motions, taking pleas. In the afternoon, she presides over pre-trial hearings.

"We do all of the pretrial work for felonies, specifically preliminary hearings," she said. She works with a group of three district attorneys and six or seven public defenders on a regular basis, overseeing cases concerning drug dealing, sex crimes, murder, and other felonies.

"Every case is a challenge because every case is different. The ultimate challenge is hoping that you make the right decision that's going to affect people's lives so drastically," she noted.

Lee's activities don't stop with the end of her workday. "It's very important that judges have a certain amount of visibility in the community," she explained. Consequently, Lee participates in a variety of extracurricular activities. She is a past president of the Queen's Bench, where she initiated the visitation program with women inmates at the Youth Guidance Center. She established and is a member of the Mayor's Task Force on Domestic Violence. Every year Lee speaks at the women's jail in San Bruno on criminal procedure in prisoner's rights. Additionally, she has served on the board of directors of California Women Lawyers and San Francisco Lawyers Club.

Lee also has a variety of hobbies, including scuba diving, photography, traveling, and running -- on the wall behind her desk is a blown-up photograph of Lee crossing the finish line in the 1983 San Francisco Marathon.

In addition to all of this, Lee still manages to keep close ties to the GGU Law School. She has organized two class reunions, and she has served on the Alumni Council for five years.

"I've always appreciated the fact that Golden Gate gave me a chance to do what I've done," she said, both professionally and personally. "Most of my friends have come from Golden Gate. Some of my very best friends are women I met my first day of law school. I've always had a tender spot in my heart for Golden Gate."

And from the enthusiastic applause Lee received upon accepting the Judith McKelvey Award at commencement, it was evident that the feeling was very mutual. ■

Nine Professors Added to Law School Faculty

Nine professors have joined the faculty of the Golden Gate University School of Law for the 1991-92 school year, bringing the number of full-time faculty to 32. The addition of instructors is a direct response to the increasing law student population, which currently numbers 868, including a first-year class of 238.

Barbara M. Anscher, Assistant Professor of Law and Director of Advanced Writing Programs, taught legal research and writing at Stanford Law School for two years and practiced law with the firm of Cooley, Godward, Castro, Huddleson & Tatum in San Francisco. She teaches Legal Drafting and Writing and Research at GGU.

Helen Y. Chang, Visiting Assistant Professor of Law, spent five years in private practice and was associated with two San Francisco law firms, specializing in the areas of professional liability, insurance, securities, and maritime. She also served as a tutor with Emerson's Bar Review for four years. She is teaching Criminal Law and Special Problems in Criminal Law.

The law practice of Markita D. Cooper, Visiting Assistant Professor of Law, has encompassed civil litigation and corporate law. She has worked as an attorney for Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro and Alexander, Millner & McGee in San Francisco, and for Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati in Palo Alto. Professor Cooper currently teaches Corporations and Employment Law.

Deene Goodlaw, Visiting Professor of Law, has practiced with Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro in San Francisco, specializing in the areas of employee benefits and tax law. She has taught at Hastings College of Law and the University of San Francisco Law School and was an assistant professor of law at GGU in 1975-76. She teaches Business Organizations, Estate and Gift Tax, and Wills and Trusts.

The addition of instructors is a direct response to the increasing law student population.

Andrew J. McClurg, Visiting Professor of Law, is visiting from the University of Arkansas at Little Rock School of Law, where he was selected by students as Teacher of the Year for three consecutive years. He has published articles in the areas of torts and criminal procedure and has practiced at a law firm specializing in white collar criminal defense. Professor McClurg teaches Criminal Procedure and Torts.

David B. Oppenheimer, Visiting Associate Professor of Law, specializes in discrimination law and civil trial law. He has worked as a civil rights prosecutor for the State of California, where he founded and directed an employment discrimination clinic at University of California's Boalt Hall School of Law. Professor Oppenheimer has taught at the University of San Francisco School of Law and John F. Kennedy School of Law. He teaches Civil Procedure and Torts.

Wendy P. Rouder, Visiting Assistant Professor of Law, assisted GGU Professor Bernie Segal as defense counsel for Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald in the Green Beret murder case that was the subject of the book Fatal Vision. She served as a deputy public defender in the San Francisco Public Defender's Office and as a civil litigator as an assistant to the Oakland City Attorney. Professor Rouder is a 1979 GGU School of Law graduate and has been an adjunct faculty member at both Golden Gate and Hastings College of Law. She is teaching Civil Litigation, Pre-Trial Advocacy, and Trial Advocacy.

Susan Rutberg, Associate Professor of Law, served as co-counsel in the murder and conspiracy trial of activist attorney Stephen Bingham and in 1986 received the annual California Attorneys for Criminal Justice Award for outstanding service in defense of a client. She co-directed the Criminal Defense Clinic at the University of San Francisco and has taught at New College Law School, City University of New York Law School, Santa Clara University Law School, and GGU. Professor Rutberg is a 1975 graduate of the GGU School of Law and is currently teaching Appellate Advocacy, Criminal Law Clinic, Criminal Litigation, Lawyering Skills, and Trial Advocacy.

Mary P. Treuthart, Visiting Professor of Law, is visiting from Gonzaga University School of Law. She has taught at Nevada School of Law, Duquesne University School of Law, and the National Judicial College in Nevada. She was a staff attorney for Washoe County Legal Services in Nevada and director of Warren County Legal Services in New Jersey. She teaches Constitutional Law. ■

New Alumni Directory Available

The 1992 Golden Gate University Alumni Directory will be printed next month and mailed to alumni in January. The School of Law will have a separate section for our graduates. Alumni will be listed alphabetically, by class, and by state.

Copies may be ordered directly from the publisher by calling (800) 877-6554. Please indicate that you are a graduate of Golden Gate University. Cost for the directory is $51.95 (softbound) plus $5.95 for shipping and handling.

1990-91 Annual Donor Report

Dear School of Law Graduate:

We are pleased to include in this issue the 1990-91 Annual Donor Report, which covers the period from July 1, 1990 to June 30, 1991. Total gift income to the School of Law and the number of alumni making gifts increased last year, in spite of the effects of a protracted recession. Many gifts were received both for scholarship support as well as for unrestricted purposes.

The following pages are devoted to listing the names of graduates and friends who supported the Law School in 1990-91. We are particularly grateful to the 30 individuals listed below who each contributed $1,000 or more and are recognized as members of our President's Circle. This marks a significant increase from the 13 members of the President's Circle in the previous year.

Many graduates gave for the first time last year, while others continued to renew their support. We have placed an asterisk next to those individuals who have given for at least three consecutive years.

I hope you will support your Law School via a financial contribution this year. Special recognition is provided to all donors who join one of our club levels, which begin at $100. A reply envelope is enclosed with this issue of Alumni Forum. If you have already given since July 1, you may wish to retain the envelope and use it later to make a special year-end contribution.

Two Staff Members Added to Law School

Craig A. Engel and Marci L. Kelly have joined the administrative staff of the GGU Law School. Craig is the Director of Admissions and Marci has come aboard as the Acting Associate Dean and Director of the school's LL.M. Tax Program.

Craig comes to the school from Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa, where he served as Assistant Director of Admissions and, before that, as an Admissions Counselor. He has also worked as a financial aid counselor, admissions counselor, and parent orientation associate as a graduate assistant at the University of Iowa in Iowa City.

A graduate of Cornell College with a B.S.S. in English and Religion, Craig also earned an M.A. in higher education - administration from the University of Iowa.

At GGU, Craig is responsible for recruiting students, evaluating candidates for admission, and planning and implementing events for potential applicants. Among his goals for the school are "to increase the quality and diversity of the incoming class" in order to make the Law School even better than it already is.

Marci Kelly's most recent position was at the University of Puget Sound School of Law in Tacoma, Washington, where she served as an associate professor. She has taught at the University of Washington School of Business in Seattle and at University of Notre Dame School of Law as a visiting professor. In addition, Marci has worked as an attorney-advisor for the U.S. Tax Court in Washington, D.C., and as an associate tax attorney for Lord Day & Lord in New York City. Marci has a B.A. in political science from Vassar College; a J.D. from the University of Virginia Law School; and an LL.M. from New York University School of Law.

Her duties at GGU encompass organizing course materials, hiring, and doing recruitment for the LL.M. program, as well as teaching part-time in the program. "Our goal is to maintain and strengthen the standards for post-graduate education in the tax field and to increase the number of lawyers participating in this education," she explained. ■

Public Interest Loan Update

In the spring of 1991, the Law School instituted a Public Interest Loan Assistance Program (PILAP) to provide grants to Law School graduates who choose careers in public interest law. The grants are designed to help individuals repay their student loans and are to be awarded on the basis of financial need.

Initial funding for PILAP was provided by a $25,000 allocation from the University to be used to create an endowment. In addition, last spring law students voted to increase their student fees by $20 a year in order to help pay for the program. A spring fundraiser also provided financial support to the grant program.

A steering committee has been formed to determine which positions qualify within the category of public interest law. The committee will also set monetary limits for the grants.

During the coming months, Law School graduates will receive a letter with more specific information on how to apply for public interest loan assistance. In the meantime, contributions are needed to provide ongoing availability of grants to public interest graduates. To make a contribution to the Public Interest Loan Assistance Program, please send a check to: Golden Gate University School of Law, 536 Mission Street, San Francisco, CA 94105.

Library Card

Alumni are eligible to use the services of the GGU Law Library. A library card is available for a $25.00 annual fee. To obtain an application for a library card, call Scott Sheldon, Director of Development, (415) 442-7000, ext. 7554.
