TO ALL INTERESTED PARTIES:

The Assembly Committees on Local Government and Housing and Community Development share jurisdiction on legislation dealing with the housing element of general plans. This session saw another spate of bills on the subject, such as SB 744 (Dunn) and AB 2702 (Steinberg), which were supported by housing advocates but opposed by many local governments. Other measures, such as AB 2980 (Salinas) and AB 1158 (Lowenthal) attempted to streamline the process by which local governments obtain certification of their housing elements from the Department of Housing and Community Development; however, these bills had local government support but were opposed by housing advocates. The 2003-04 legislative session ended with two bills, AB 2158 (Lowenthal) and AB 2348 (Mullin), that incorporated the consensus results of the Housing Element Work Group being enacted. However, many issues of controversy in this area remain outstanding and will no doubt be the subject of legislation in the 2005-06 legislative session.

Other issues before the Assembly Committee on Local Government (Committee) that were the subject of significant debate included, but were not limited to, allowing local governments to assess local income taxes [AB 1690 (Leno)]; electronic recordation of legal documents such as deeds and titles [AB 578 (Leno)]; adopting as state law the substantive provisions of the federal Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act [AB 600 (Maddox)]; and requiring big-box retail stores to prepare an economic impact report prior to obtaining a building permit from a local government [SB 1056 (Alarcon)].

The following report summarizes legislation referred to the Committee during the 2003-04 legislative session, and indicates the final status. The report is divided into five categories: land use and housing, local government finance, local powers and duties, open meetings and conflict of interest, and special districts. Bills marked with an asterisk (*) were subsequently amended and utilized as vehicles for other bill proposals, some of which stayed within the Committee's jurisdiction.

The Assembly Committees on Local Government and Housing and Community Development share jurisdiction on legislation dealing with the housing element of general plans. This session saw another spate of bills on the subject, such as SB 744 (Dunn) and AB 2702 (Steinberg), which were supported by housing advocates but opposed by many local governments. Other measures, such as AB 2980 (Salinas) and AB 1158 (Lowenthal) attempted to streamline the process by which local governments obtain certification of their housing elements from the Department of Housing and Community Development; however, these bills had local government support but were opposed by housing advocates. The 2003-04 legislative session ended with two bills, AB 2158 (Lowenthal) and AB 2348 (Mullin), that incorporated the consensus results of the Housing Element Work Group being enacted. However, many issues of controversy in this area remain outstanding and will no doubt be the subject of legislation in the 2005-06 legislative session.

Other issues before the Assembly Committee on Local Government (Committee) that were the subject of significant debate included, but were not limited to, allowing local governments to assess local income taxes [AB 1690 (Leno)]; electronic recordation of legal documents such as deeds and titles [AB 578 (Leno)]; adopting as state law the substantive provisions of the federal Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act [AB 600 (Maddox)]; and requiring big-box retail stores to prepare an economic impact report prior to obtaining a building permit from a local government [SB 1056 (Alarcon)].

The following report summarizes legislation referred to the Committee during the 2003-04 legislative session, and indicates the final status. The report is divided into five categories: land use and housing, local government finance, local powers and duties, open meetings and conflict of interest, and special districts. Bills marked with an asterisk (*) were subsequently amended and utilized as vehicles for other bill proposals, some of which stayed within the Committee's jurisdiction.
