PREFACE

Volume XXVI of the Notes and Comments Journal of the Golden Gate University Law Review features the articles of both practicing attorneys and law students covering a broad range of legal topics relevant to California as well as the greater legal community. We are pleased to include two articles from practicing attorneys, Ann J. Rosenthal, R. Stuart Phillips and Robert M. Myers. Rosenthal and Phillips' article provides practical guidance to California attorneys regarding real estate disclosure, while Myers takes a more theoretical approach in examining Fifth Amendment application in police shootings. The included student articles critically analyze legal issues of corporate reorganization, international art theft, internet censorship, constructive discharge, trade secret and disability law.

I wish to express my appreciation to our faculty advisor Mary Ann Wolcott for her generously given time and editing support. I would also like to acknowledge the friendship and assistance of my associate editors Rob Arnold, Art Mead, Julie Qureshi and Phil Wang. They have provided considerable support and guidance both to me and their writers. I would also like to thank the entire Notes and Comments staff, without whose dedicated effort publication of this volume would not have been possible. Further thanks to our Editor-in-Chief Kevin McGee whose late hours in the library did not go unnoticed. Finally, I gratefully acknowledge the participation of the members of the Golden Gate University School of Law faculty, who gave their time and expertise to advise the student writers whose work appears in this volume.
