2000 Annual Report of Giving

This 2000 Annual Report gratefully acknowledges the dedication and generosity of alumni, friends, faculty, students, staff, and organizations whose financial support and thousands of hours of volunteered time have helped to preserve the best of our heritage and create further opportunities for intellectual and professional growth in legal education.

I take enormous pride in the graph on the facing page, which shows how much the amount of annual donations to the Law School has increased; it is tremendously gratifying to see that it has doubled since I became dean. But I know that the credit is not mine to claim. That credit belongs to all of you, who have been so steadfast and generous with your donations. You are helping to make this law school into one that is nationally recognized, with the highly respected reputation and visibility it deserves.

The generosity of everyone who gives is a mixture of several motivations. That is as it should be. There is that solid, practical component which recognizes that giving provides funds that improve the Law School, thus ultimately raising the school's reputation. Giving is a wise, prudent investment that adds considerable value to a Golden Gate law degree and to the professional status of every lawyer who has one. And that is certainly what is happening with the Law School as we become more widely known and respected.

In addition, there is simply that splendid spiritedness that makes us want to help the students who are here now. We remember how we struggled to make our way though, and we want to give a hand to those students who are now going through what we did.

Since becoming dean, I have seen myself as head cheerleader for this Law School's great attributes: its terrific roster of alumni who have made such a fine mark on the legal profession and for its 100-year history of remarkable growth and development. I am constantly out there passing the collection plate, encouraging everyone to generously give those gifts that make all the difference in securing for the Law School the visibility and renown it deserves.

A big step in that direction begins this summer. We start construction on an $18 million renovation of the Law School teaching facilities at 536 Mission Street. The result will be a fabulous new legal center. The auditoriums and classrooms will be gutted and remade into state-of-the-art, technologically equipped tiered lecture halls, seminar rooms, and classrooms. Each seat will have a laptop computer connection. The teaching podiums will have computerized presentation abilities, cutting-edge audiovisual and teleconferencing capabilities, and the most advanced features for uniting teaching sessions with other locations.

All of this will be up and running for the fall semester of 2002. It will be one of the most advanced law school teaching facilities in the country. How is that for good news about how the Law School is doing and where it is going?

Sincerely,

Peter G. Keane, Dean

THE MILLENNIUM SOCIETY

Established in late 1999 to commemorate the year 2000, the Millennium Society has become the premier support group of unrestricted funds for Golden Gate University. In the first year, each Millennium Society founder contributed a minimum of $2,000 to the university and/or for use at the dean's discretion in a designated school.

We are grateful to the members (below), who contributed more than $92,600 to the Law School in 2000. Their generous support allowed Dean Peter Keane to move quickly in meeting a variety of pressing needs, including awarding scholarships to outstanding students, recruiting exemplary professors and professional practitioners for our teaching faculty, and maintaining a competitive edge in developing technologies.

Total Law School Donations in 2000

SPECIAL GIFT CLUBS

Private gifts enhance virtually every aspect of the Law School: curriculum enrichment, student financial aid, technology and equipment, the law library, faculty research, and a variety of special programs. Individual membership in the following gift clubs is based on pledge payments, current gifts of cash and securities, and employee matching gifts. Gifts-in-kind and unpaid pledges are not included. The Law School extends its heartfelt thanks to each of the following individuals whose financial support has had a measurable impact on the people and programs of Golden Gate University School of Law.

PRESIDENT'S CIRCLE

The leadership of those who set an exemplary standard of giving undergirds the Law School's ability to serve its constituents, communities, and society with increasing effectiveness. Their example also encourages others to join in helping to assure a strong future for the Law School.

We deeply appreciate the substantial commitments made by the following individuals—alumni, faculty, staff, students, and special friends—whose generous gifts of $1,000 or more have provided critical resources that enhance current programs and fund special Law School priorities. Together, these individuals contributed more than $727,750 in 2000.

THE BRIDGE SOCIETY

A carefully planned estate can help avoid or reduce taxes, increasing the amount an individual can leave to heirs and favorite charities. While outright gifts address immediate needs, deferred gifts fulfill a vital role in securing the Law School's future. Membership in The Bridge Society is available to all those who notify us of their provision for the Law School through planned gifts such as bequests, charitable trusts, gifts of life insurance, and property. We are pleased to recognize the following members of The Bridge Society, who have made commitments to the Law School in their estate plans.

MATCHING GIFT COMPANIES

Matching gift companies are those enterprises which support higher education through a program whereby an employee's contribution is matched by the company. This generous program doubles—and sometimes triples—a personal gift to the Law School. The Law School applauds the philanthropic spirit of these companies, who provided matching gifts during 2000.

VOLUNTEERS

Law School alumni have been extraordinarily generous in giving their valuable time to a variety of Law School activities including student recruitment, mock interviews, legal career options day, moot court judging, special advisory boards and governance, appellate advocacy, and more. We express our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to the following alumni, whose thousands of hours of volunteered time have greatly enriched the Law School's programs and services. (If you have served as a graduate volunteer and your name is not included on this list, please let us know so that we may recognize your contributions in the future.)
