San Francisco, CA (April 25, 2014) – Golden Gate University (GGU) recently named the Honorable Marshall Whitley (Ret.) as Director of the School of Law’s LLM (Masters of Laws) in Taxation Program and Lindsay Jester as the program’s Assistant Director. Whitley was an adjunct professor in the program for nearly three decades prior to his promotion. He served for twenty years in the California Courts. For 10 of those years, Whitley presided over the Probate Departments for the California Superior Court in Alameda County.

Before joining GGU, Jester was engaged in large law firm practices as a civil litigator handling all phases of the litigation process in a wide variety of legal areas.

“We are extremely fortunate to have such talented people lead this important program,” says GGU Law Dean Rachel Van Cleave. “Their talents and energy will help manage, promote, and grow our LLM program, ensuring our students are practice-ready upon graduation.”
