PREFACE

Volume twenty two of the Women’s Law Forum is a product of collective and outstanding effort both within the Journal and throughout the law school community.

The 1991-1992 academic year was without doubt an exciting one at Golden Gate. Adding to the existing feminist community, were new professors, a dedicated student body, and a frenzied energy in need of an outlet. The result was a vision and commitment to create a feminist network and raise consciousness on cutting edge issues.

The feminist jurisprudence speaker series: “Feminist Theory Practically Speaking” was the brainchild and the work product through which part of this vision was expressed. Timely topics, notably the Hill/Thomas hearing and sexual relations between attorneys and clients highlighted the series.

The Staff of the Women’s Law Forum would like to extend a gracious appreciation to those who dedicated many hours of their time and energy to make this series a reality: Suzanne Bachman, Juliet Haley, Joan Howarth, Susan Kupfer, Ghada Saliba and Mary Pat Treuthart.

The Women’s Law Forum, itself, was also part of the feminist vision of 1991-1992, and provided a forum for papers presented at “Practically Speaking.” We are proud to include in this issue a paper presented on the subject of attorney-client sex.

This paper is well accompanied by excellent pieces by other respected professors and committed students. As editor, I extend my thanks to all who have worked to make this issue real. I am grateful to have been a part of such talent.

I would also like to thank Michael Zamperini for his tireless effort and support to the Golden Gate Law Review, and to Lisa Church and Joan Howarth—for pulling us through.
